LANGSTON UNIVERSITY, LANGSTON, OKLAHOMA, SEPTEMBER, 1965

NUMBER ONE

Langston Homecoming Oct. 14-16

Langston U. Development Foundation Receives Gift

Expression was given to the slogan "Partners in Progress" by the American Airlines through its recent contribution of $500 to the Langston University Development Foundation.

Mr. Bob Hodder, Manager of the Oklahoma City office of the American Airlines Company, indicated that this contribution to Langston University was, in effect, a recognition and encouragement of the rapid growth and the intellectual opportunity being made possible under the administration of president William H. Hale at Langston University.

"American Airlines hopes that this grant will contribute to furthering the fine work being done and we are proud to be a working partner in the enterprise."

President Hale has been a frequent participant in conferences sponsored by the federal government urging industry and college cooperation through its Plans for Progress Program.

Dr. Hale visualizes a growing "partnership for progress" in Oklahoma with business and industry playing an important role in the development of students at Langston University, and the Institution providing, in return, capable personnel who will serve industry with credit. American Airlines officials indicated that they would leave to Dr. Hale the decision of where these funds would be of greatest use. "The greatest need at present is for matching funds to assure receipt of federal student loan and work-study funds. This expression of faith in the future of Langston University greatly encourages us and lets us know that we are on the right track," stated Dr. Hale.

Mr. Don Haynes, District Sales Manager for American Airlines, was present during the presentation of the check.

Accreditation Continues

President William H. Hale has been officially notified that the Executive Board of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools voted on August 5 to continue the accreditation of Langston University as a bachelor's degree-granting institution.

The North Central Review Committee visited the institution April of this year and in its report of the visit indicated that the student body was found to be "serious in their approach to their studies, well-groomed, well-mannered, and extremely loyal to the institution." The academic preparation was found to be good and the faculty to be sincerely student-oriented and service-minded. Commenting on administration, the Visitation Committee report stated, "The University is fortunate in having a dedicated, energetic, and capable administration intent upon providing the students with a favorable atmosphere. It is devoted to the continued improvement of the institution and it has established a realistic plan of development on both short and long-range bases."

Welcome Mat Out For All Alumni

An array of festive events have been carefully planned for the enjoyment and pleasure of the many alumni and friends who will be a part of Langston University's Homecoming activities scheduled for October 14-16, 1965.

The first event held during this festive celebration will be the Coronation of "Miss Langston".

This year's Miss Langston is Mary Irene Jackson, a junior in the Department of Business Education, from Hugo, Oklahoma.

Following the formal ceremony, a Coronation Ball will be held in the William H. Hale Student Union.

The annual Breakfast Dance-- a time to greet old friends-- is scheduled for Saturday morning at five o'clock. The Langston Collegians will provide music for this occasion.

Coffee will be served by the Langston University Parents Organization in the faculty lounge of the Student Union from 8-11 A. M.

The Parade, in which campus organizations vie for prize-winning floats, will start at 10:30 A.M. Cash prizes will be awarded to the organization whose float best depicts the Homecoming theme, "Building for a Better World."

At "Kick-Off" time at 2 p.m., spectators will see the Langston Lions pitted against the Savages of Southeastern State College. The game promises to be filled with thrills and chills as the Langston Lions are out to revenge themselves against the 10-20 defeat delivered by the Savages last year.

For the second year, a named band has been booked to play for a Concert Dance. This year's attraction will be the versatile orchestra of Ernie Fields and Son. The Concert is from 7:00-8:30 P.M. in the L. W. Young Auditorium and the Dance will be held at 9:30 P.M.-12:30 A. M. in the Ballroom of the William H. Hale Student Union.

The Ernie Fields' unit has stayed in the top bracket because of the more than three decades of experience by its leader, Ernie Fields.

I would like to take this opportunity to welcome you, my fellow Langstonites, and wish each of you a successful and enjoyable year at Langston University.

Langston University has, at present, a student body of approximately 1179. The Gazette Staff believes that with an enrollment of this size, the Gazette should be published at least once a month. One can easily see the editorial staff has a tremendous task of compiling all the news items into a publication— which is a brief synopsis of the events that occurred during the month.

This semis

This semester, we will endeavor to obtain increased participation of students, student organizations, and to provide a greater coverage of opinions and activities. Therefore, we are making an appeal to students, and faculty members also, to submit news stories about your department and organizations. The third Tuesday in each month has been established for the deadline period for the submission of material.

In order to produce an excellent publication each month, we must have your cooperation. THANK YOU.

this is the first time an Oklahoman has served on the Advisory Committee or Board of any of the Service Academies.

The United States Coast Academy prepares young men to be commissioned officers in the United States Coast Guard. Students at the Academy are called cadets; the cadet system began in 1876. The Academy is comparable to those of the other armed forces. But entrance is by annual nationwide competitive test rather than by congressional appointment.

In accepting the appointment, Dr. Hale stated, "I am proud to have this opportunity to be of service to my country. It is at one and the same time a high honor and a challenge."

Fields, Sr. Ernie has changed with the times, as to style of music, with each era. He now has young hand-picked musicians under the direction of Ernie Fields, Jr. Pleasing instrumentally, the band has the sound of a big band that is particularly suited to the most intimate night club, private club, or college dance, and yet is adaptable to a large theatre audience or auditorium. The band is a show to watch, easy to dance to and enjoyable to hear.

Tickets for the Concert-Dance are $2.00. One ticket admits a person to both the Concert and Dance and may be secured by writing the Business office, Langston University, Langston, Oklahoma.

Accreditation

The need for new physical facilities was one of the areas needing improvement. The Committee noted the Oklahoma State Regents Report on capital improvements in which physical plant improvements at Langston University were pointed out as needing urgent attention. Bond funds for capital improvement for higher education will be voted on in December of this year.

President Hale stated, "This accreditation gives new and real hopes for a bright and more useful future for Langston University."

Ernie Fields And Son Will Be Featured During Homecoming Festivities

A part of the special activities scheduled for the celebration of Homecoming at Langston University, October 16, 1965 will be the appearance of the orchestra of Ernie Fields and Son.

The Ernie Fields' unit is often referred to as the greatest family music combination since the late fabulous Dorsey Brothers Orchestra. The leader of the group, Ernie Fields, Sr., has more than three decades of experience. However, Ernie has changed with the times, as to style in music, with each era. This has enabled him to stay in the top bracket. He now has young, hand-picked musicians, under the direction of Ernie Fields, Jr., who play more than one instrument well and sing. Ernie's staff of arrangers include Plaz Johnson, Earl Palmer, Rene Hall, Jack Scott, and Ernie Fields, Jr.

The band is a show to watch, easy to dance to and enjoyable to hear. Tickets for the Concert-Dance are $2.00. One ticket admits a person to both the concert and dance. Tickets are now on sale and may be secured by writing the Business Office, Langston University, Langston, Oklahoma.

The House Of Alpha

"GOODWILL is the monarch of this house. Men, unacquainted, enter, shake hands, exchange greetings, and depart friends. Cordiality exists among all who abide within. I am the eminent expression of friendship. Character and temperament change under my dominant power. Lives once touched by me become tuned and are thereafter amiable, kindly, fraternal."

The brothers of Beta Kappa ended the 1965 spring semester in high moral, spiritual, scholarly, and social attitudes. There where 23 brothers graduated from the chapter during the past school term. The organization found 28 brothers out of a roster of 54 listed on the Honor Roll. Two of these brothers were listed on the President's Honor Cabinet for maintaining a 4.00 average. These two brothers were brothers Nathaniel Smith, a graduate, and Marcell Buckner, a present junior. This honor roll statistically consisted of better than 50 per cent of the brothers.

During the summer, the brothers lived by the words of "The House of Alpha", by brother Sydney Brown; and the creed of "First of All, Servants of All, We Shall Transcend All." Each brother in his own way contributed his part to hold Alpha high. Our contributions in the area of public services were Brothers Jimmie Moore, who worked as a chemistry Lab Technician in Los Angeles California; Henry Brown, mathematical aid at the Federal Aviation Agency Aeronautical Center in Oklahoma City; Donald White and Rosco Cartwright, Kerr-McGee Oil Refinery Co; Herman Motley and John Maxwell, Douglas Air Craft Co., Tulsa, Oklahoma; Ronnie Clark, Henry Fields and Robert Anderson, Oklahoma Sail Conservation Service; Duane Goodson, Assistant Electrician T. L. Rosenberg Co.; Albert M. Thompson, Junior Inspector Goodkin and O'Dea Engineering Co.; Advergus James, park supervisor, Muskogee, Oklahoma; and President, James Manns delegate to our National Convention, Chicago, Illinois.

Once again nationally rated Beta Kappa placed number one in the undergraduate category of outstanding chapters.

This chapter with an official registered membership, placed second only to the Howard University Chapter of Washington, D. C., as rated according to membership. The 59th Annual Convention held in Chicago, Illinois, at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel August 8-12, 1965, with the theme "Continuing the thrust for Equal Opportunity," rated Beta Kappa as the most Outstanding Undergraduate Chapter for the year 1965-66. This honor has been bestowed on Beta Kappa for two years in a row based on its activities for the year which were so colorfully displayed in its outstanding scrapbook.

Beta Kappa returned to the Langston University on September 13 and began preparing to welcome the Freshman Class of 1965 to our home. The "Ice-Breaker", designed to entertain and welcome the freshman class to its new environments, and gala occasion.

LU Amplified Telephone Mathematics

A mathematics seminar will be conducted the first semester of the present school year for upper-division students who are interested in mathematics. The program will be orientated toward the New or Modern Mathematics. Several lectures will be given by outstanding mathematicians to supplement the lectures of the Master-lecturer. The course will meet each Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. and each session will last about ninety minutes.

The seminar will link, through educational amplified telephone techniques, a noted mathematics teacher from some university with students from eleven cooperating institutions. In addition, an electronic device, known as the Electrowriter will be used to send handwriting over a telephone wire. This will be shown on a screen at each of the institutions. Students will be able to hear and also see the lecturer develop various topics in the field of mathematics. This should help the participants to follow the lectures.

The project is sponsored by the Ford Foundation and supplemented with a grant from the National Science Foundation to purchase the Electrowriters. The program is under the auspices of Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri, who pioneered this inter-institutional program using the facilities of amplified telephone.

Dr. Howard F. Fehr, head of the Department of the Teaching of Mathematics at Teachers College, Columbia University, a distinguished authority on the new mathematics, will be principal lecturer for the series of 15 classes comprising the course, "Contemporary Mathematics." He will present seven other nationally known mathematicians as guest lecturers during the seminar. Following his illustrated lecture, students at the participating institutions will question the mathematician on points in his formal talk.

Following completion of the initial course, Stephens expects to cooperate with the other participating colleges and universities in establishing a series of telephone networks to extend amplified telephone programs to still other institutions.

Among colleges taking part in the mathematics course are several institutions historically Negro in enrollment. This is in line with the Fund For the Advancement of Education's interest in helping such colleges supplement their instruction with teaching by guest authorities in various fields.

Colleges participating are: Central Methodist College, Fayette, Mo.; Bishop College, Dallas, Tex.; Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga.; Langston University, Langston, Okla.; Wilberforce University, Wilberforce, Ohio; Kansas Wesleyan University, Salina, Kansas.; Tougaloo College, Tougaloo, Miss.; Grambling College, Grambling, La.; and Southern University, Baton Rouge, La.

Guest lecturers will include Dr. Frederick Mosteller, chairman of the Department of Statistics, Harvard University; Dr. Marshall H. Stone, Distinguished Service Professor of Mathematics, University of Chicago, whose lecture will originate from Stephens; Dr. Albert W. Tucker, professor of Mathematics, Princeton University; Dr. George B. Thomas, Jr., professor of Mathematics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Dr. Howard Levi, Professor of Mathematics, Hunter College; Dr. Henry Pollak, Chairman of Mathematics Division of Bell Telephone Laboratories, and Dr. Nathan J. Fine, Professor of Mathematics, Pennsylvania State University and author of "Introduction to Modern Mathematics," which will be used

Enrollment:

Up..Up..Up..

A twenty-five per cent increase in the total enrollment is noted at Langston University for the first semester of the 1965-66 school year. At the close of the registration period on Friday, September 24, 1179 students were enrolled.

When compared with enrollment trends throughout the life span of the institution, it is found that the 1179 enrollment for 1965-66 ranks second. The highest enrollment in the history of the institution was in 1938-39 when 1201 students were enrolled.

The freshmen enrollment of 450 marks the highest number for this class in the history of the institution.

AKA's Sponsor How-To-Study Clinic

Registration for the "How-To-Study Clinic" held during Freshman Orientation Week at Langston University, Saturday, September 11, reached a new peak. Although it was not mandatory for freshmen to attend, over 300 freshmen out of a total enrollment of 440 registered for the Clinic.

The theme for the fifth annual Clinic, which is sponsored by the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, was "Becoming a Successful Student Through Effective Study." One of the principal features of the Clinic was a panel discussion: "How Important Are Out-Of-Class Activities to Your College Education?" Dr. William E. Sims, Dean of Instruction, served as Chairman and discussed "Social Adjustment"; Miss Margaret Parrish, Vice-President of the AWS gave hints on "Dormitory Life"; Mr. Fred Latimer, Sooner Guide for 1964, spoke on "Co-Curricular Activities"; and Mrs. Cladie O. Callaway, Instructor in the Physical Education Department, gave helpful comments on the "Importance of Wholesome Recreation".

"Practical Guides in the Method of Study and Learning" was the topic for group meetings. Consultants were Mrs. Elwyn Breaux, Chairman of the Department of English; Mrs. Joy N. Flasch, Instructor in the Department of English; Dr. Walter Jones, Chairman of the Department of Biology; and Dr. Louise Stephens, Director of the Division of Education. Following the group meetings, Mrs. E.L. Clement, Assistant Professor in the Department of Mathematics, discussed "Organizing Your Day".

A follow-up of the How-to-Study Clinic: "How to Study for an Examination" will be held before mid-term final examinations.

as the textbook for the course. More than one thousand students are expected to enroll in the seminar which will carry college credit at the cooperating institutions. Faculty members, at the various institution, will be in charge of the classes and coordinate student discussion with the lecturer of the evening.

Students who are interested for credit or non-credit should contact the Mathematics Department.

Crimson and Cream

Aloha! This greeting comes from the members of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., Beta Upsilon Chapter, to all of the students here at Langston, especially since Sorors Margaret Ware and Alstene Starks attended the Delta National Convention at Los Angeles, California August 15-20. The highlight of the convention was a cruise to Hawaii which lasted August 21-27. Sorors Ware and Starks returned full of enthusiasm and with an exciting report, complete with many pictures and souvenirs. As quoted by Soror Ware: "The Delta National Convention was one of sheer delight and pleasure for those who attended. Langston's Sorors were well represented. From Beta Upsilon Chapter, we had Margaret Parish, Alstene Starks and Delegate Margaret Ware attending the Convention. Among the graduate Sorors were, Mrs. Rosa House, Mrs. Elesta Jones, Mrs. Amelia Taylor, Mrs. Fannie Miller, and Mrs. Moore, who is a former instructor in the Education Department of Langston University.

The convention opened Sunday, August 15, 1965 at 9:30 a.m. The highlights of the convention were many. On Sunday we met with Miss Lena Horne, an honorary member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

On Tuesday, I had the privilege of talking to some students who assisted with the Delta Teen-lift, a project dedicated to helping teenagers.

We were happy to see two wonderful women inducted as honorary members of Delta. Poly Cowan a writer for radio and television and consultant to the Women's Commission of Civil Rights and Amelia Platts Boyington of Selma, Alabama who led the Marches in Selma were so honored.

We had an opportunity to meet Soror Vivian Malone, who integrated the University of Alabama, and Soror Carole Cole, daughter of the late Nat "King" Cole. She will make her first film debut this fall.

At our Civil Rights Luncheon more than $1000.00 was contributed to the Watts Riot area by Delta Sigma Theta; it was a continuance of Delta's aim to give service to those in need.

We had the pleasure to have such distinguished people speak such as Martin Luther King, who was in Los Angeles for the purpose of assisting in calming the Riot-torn area of Los Angeles.

Soror Leslie Uggams, who was appearing at the Famous "Cocoanut Grove," sat and conversed with us for a while. Miss Uggams was also initiated with Soror Merely Evers at our National Convention.

The Convention closed Thursday with a Banquet and Soror Patricia Harris, Ambassador to Luxemburg presented the farewell address.

Delta Sigma Theta is proud to welcome to our little sisterhood 31 Pyramids. Fifteen of them are listed on the Dean's Honor Roll and among the honorable mention.

Soror Charlesetta Henry has brought honor to Delta for she has been listed on the President's Honor Cabinet for two consecutive semesters with an average of 4.00. Listed on the Dean's Honor Roll for the second semester of the school term 1964-65, are Sorors Harper, Henderson, Miles, Parks, Parrish, Turner, Brown, Cherry, Crenshaw, Cunningham, King, Reed, Richardson, Traylor, Taylor and Aldridge, with averages of 3.00 or above.

Sophomores Find Time For Today

Alas! Another year of concentration, sharing of ideas, and launching of souls out into the very attainable horizons of experience. Yes, another year of school bids all a warm and friendly welcome.

Within this realm, the Sophomore Class of Langston University extends words of encouragement to every student and to all personnel, not only for a prosperous year, but for an enriching TODAY.

This very day holds in store some of the happiness which people almost invariably experience during the course of time. In time, the life process becomes one of beauty because we live today - TODAY!

In the truest sense, then, we urge not only you, but also ourselves, to seek each day--TODAY--those elements of life which tend to render human souls more joyful. On this day, at the outset, we all strive for organization, strengthening of our mental and physical capacities, adjustment to the social round-of-life, the ability to give unto other, the building of unbending courage and loyalty, and improvement of our moral and spiritual values. With these aims in mind, we, the students of the Sophomore Class, tip our hats to all joining in to make the human cause one more commonly human to all. This, TODAY, is our purpose.

Anderson Field Has New Look

Anderson Field at Langston University has acquired a new look in the installation of high voltage stadium lights which will permit the playing of night football games on the University campus.

For the past several years, all home football games, with the exception of the homecoming games, have been played in the Guthrie Jelsma Stadium. The installation of the new lighting system will enable more games to be played on campus thus giving the resident student body opportunity to enjoy those events.

In announcing this new feature, Dr. William H. Hale, President of Langston University, said, "This is just another concrete example of the progress the institution is making. We are grateful to the City of Guthrie for the fine cooperation shown the institution in permitting use of the Jelsma Stadium for our football games. We hope that the many friends who enjoyed these events in the past will continue to support the Lions by their presence on the campus and continue to be a part of the section 'rooting for the home team'."

An additional feature which greeted game-goers this fall was a set of new bleachers that will seat one thousand people.

Pictured here is Lion's Quarterback Richard Green who completed 8 out of 17 for 160 yards and two touchdowns against Central State.

Lions Lose Opener 18-14

Over four thousand fans braved the rain to witness the first night game to be played at our home stadium, Anderson Field.

Despite the excellent passing by Richard Green, a sophomore quarterback from Lexington, Kentucky; and the swift maneuvering of Isaac Monts, freshman halfback from Lawton, the Lions lost the game to Central State 18-14 following a recovered fumble by the Bronchos on Langston's 25 yard line.

The game thrilled spectators from start to finish and gave evidence that the Lions were much improved over last year's team.

Basketball News

Seven returning veteran players of the Langston University Basketball Team, along with a new head coach, were joined this semester by two junior college transfers and four freshmen. As a squad, they will endeavor to improve on the 16 won, 11 lost record of last year.

The 1964-65 Lions captured 2nd place in the Oklahoma Collegiate Conference and N. A. I. A. playoff berth along with Conference Champions, Oklahoma Baptist University, who emerged runner-up at the National Tournament in Kansas City.

Coaching Staff

Two promotions will be noted this year in the Langston University coaching staff. T. M. Crisp, Head Football Coach at Langston University since 1958, will assume the role of Director of Athletics in addition to his coaching duties. Tim replaces C. Felton Gayles who retired this past July following thirty-five years at the Institution as Director of Athletics and head basketball coach. Moving up from Assistant basketball coach to lead coach will be Joel C. Mack. Mack is a native of Lexington, Kentucky, and has coached both basketball and football in the public schools of Kentucky and Indiana. He has been an assistant in the Langston coaching staff since September 1962.

Social Security Law Changes To Help Students

A recent change in the Social Security Law will help many Oklahoma students continue their education. If you were getting social security benefits because one of your parents died, became disabled or retired, and your benefits were stopped because you became 18 years of age, you may now be able to get checks until you are 22 if you are attending school full time. Also, if you are a full-time student under 22 and unmarried, but have never received social security benefits because you were over 18 when one of your parents retired, became disabled, or died, you may be eligible for payments now. Retroactive payment can be made for months in which a student was attending school full time as far back as January, 1965. If you believe you may be eligible for these benefits, contact your Oklahoma City social security office immediately. The address is 200 N.W. 4th, Oklahoma City.
